

TITLE: DRAGO

LOGLINE: To save his mafia boss brother, Ivan Drago must fight his way through prison and defeat the heavyweight champion of the world, Mason "The Line" Dixon.

SYNOPSIS:

1985 - After publicly insulting soviet leadership at the height of the cold war, professional Russian boxer IVAN DRAGO loses his fight against the American, ROCKY BALBOA. His punishment, death. But before his fate is sealed, Ivan's mafia boss BROTHER turns himself in, to save Ivan's life. Unbeknownst of his Brother's sacrifice, Ivan spends the next 30 years in a Siberian prison, preparing for the chance to once again face Rocky Balboa in the ring.

PRESENT DAY - Ivan Drago and his Brother rule prison from inside its icy walls. Without thinking of the consequences, the WARDEN predictably enlists MERCENARIES to dispose of the two. This sets in motion a secret plan of escape, which hinges on Ivan's ability to win an underground fighting tournament.

Having had no true challenger since Rocky Balboa, fans are getting bored with boxing and its arrogant champion MASON DIXON. In a Hail Mary attempt to find a worthy opponent, Mason's MANAGEMENT reaches out to the politically unpopular Russia, in the hope of signing Ivan Drago. As part of the fight negotiation, Mason's Management agrees to make it a title fight.

At the behest of Russian high command, Ivan Drago is narrowly rescued from the underground fighting tournament. Ivan is brought back to health and retrained in the art of boxing.

Ivan Drago arrives in Las Vegas just in time to weigh in for the fight. Minutes before the fight begins, it is revealed to Ivan that if he loses, his Brother will be executed. Searching for answers, Ivan uncovers his Brother's true involvement in his life, which inspires him to get back into the ring to win.

Mason Dixon dominates the fight with his speed and agility, effectively neutralizing Ivan Drago's super human punches. After Ivan Drago is knocked down [REDACTED]
